

Happy Birthday Stan !

Well, if Sousa was still here, a grand old march we'd play with banners streaming in the wind to celebrate this day.
Each member of the band would stand with uniforms so bright, their shoes all polished as they step reflecting the sun's light.
Then one by one they join the song with instruments in hand,
their perfect notes would echo until heard across the land.
First the flute and then the sax, the bassoon and piccolo,
the clarinet and trumpet, then the french horn and oboe.
The tuba and the trombone, bass drum and tambourine,
add the xylophone and snare drum to this wonderful routine.
Then finish with some timpani and crash the cymbals loud,
woodwind, brass, percussion all, performing for the crowd.
They are playing Happy Birthday and we are singing too,
this march and song was composed especially for you !
