

Final Jeopardy

In Memory

There will never be another like the man that passed today, a legendary figure with a game we loved to play.

This man would give the answers to three contestants at a time and they tried to give the question, with a buzzer they would chime.

Thirty answers in the first round and round two were thirty more.
The more questions that you answered then the higher you could score.

Nursery rhymes and poets, opera, sports and potpourri, science, art and movies and of course world history.

Then came the final answer where you would place that final bet, write the question to the answer, thirty seconds is all you get!

Eight thousand shows and then some, he was a gracious host,
as millions tuned in every night, they watched from coast to coast.

He was courageous in his battle as he fought the toughest foe and here is the final answer with the question you should know.

This host was born in Canada but it wasn't in Quebec, who is... the host of Jeopardy, his last name is Trebek.
