

The Lion of Kiev

In Russia, there's a madman, Vladimir Putin is his name.

He is ruthless and relentless and wants the country of Ukraine.

He rides horses all bare chested, a black belt in Judo too, the KGB runs through his blood, he's a commie through and through.
But you won't see him on the front lines, he's behind the Kremlin walls.

He's watching every shell and bomb, waiting for Kiev to fall.
Without strength, there's only weakness, now the Bear and Dragon rise, the world is watching and they're waiting with a set of global eyes.

In Kiev, there's a leader and Zelensky is his name.

He is fearless and determined to save his country of Ukraine.
With a helmet and flak jacket, he went straight to the front lines and called on all his countrymen with steel in every spine.
He is outgunned and outmanned but he won't give any ground.

He is leading and imploring as the missiles fly around.

Reagan said "tear down this wall" and what did Patton say?

"Lead me or follow me or get the hell out of my way!"

What would you do, if you were called to stand and fight today?

Would you tuck your tail and run or grab your guns and stay?

Our prayers are with these people as they defend their home and all the world wants them to know that they are not alone.

Do not be like some of those who crawl away and hide, be like Volodymyr Zelensky and say "I need ammo, not a ride."
